

I do not do telephone solicitation. It is one of the reasons why my primary number is unlisted. I do not want people to call me on the phone trying to sell me something, while I am eating or at any other time of day for that matter.

If you allow Telemarketers to call people who do not wish to be called, then you must require them to not block or otherwise mask their phone numbers. Then those who do not wish to be bothered by such people can Sue them for Invasion of Privacy and have the phone company documentation to do it with.
